

With respect to the information disclosed in the last hours that indicate that the cause of the contingency presented at the Ituango hydroelectric project is due to constructive reasons rather than geological reasons, EPM states that has no knowledge of studies in this regard and reiterates to the public that hired the Chilean company Skava Consulting to perform a root-cause analysis of what produced this contingency.

Skava Consulting is currently advancing in the root-cause analysis of the contingency, with a work team of international specialists with experience in construction and engineering in underground works.

When the studies and analysis of the Ituango hydroelectric project are completed, Skava Consulting will present an independent technical report on what happened at the site.
